Chapter 10 of the book of Acts is a pivotal point in the great commission. We all know that initially, the gospel message was for Israel. This is not to imply that the outreach to the gentiles was an afterthought. In the great providence of God, the gospel was to the elect of God, which always included peoples from every tribe, tongue and nation.

10:1-8 Hitherto none had been baptized into the Christian church but Jews, Samaritans, and those converts who had been circumcised and observed the ceremonial law; but now the Gentiles were to be called to partake all the privileges of God's people, without first becoming Jews. Pure and undefiled religion is sometimes found where we least expect it.
